Held in October at the Raleigh Convention Center in Raleigh, North Carolina, the 2009 BioProcess International Conference and Exhibition offered attendees a chance to hear sessions that reflected the state of the industry, as well as numerous networking opportunities throughout this week long event. This year, conference sessions had a strong focus on future trends and innovations with process design, development, and manufacturing.

IBC's BioProcess International Conference & Exhibition welcomed 1,500+ attendees, including key decisionmakers within biopharmaceutical development and production responsible for making bottom-line driven technology & services decisions.

Attendees by Job Title

Attendees by Geography

"This is a one-stop, non-stop conference. You can personalize your day by selecting presentations from two different tracks with an option to gain more knowledge by visiting the exhibit hall, reading posters, attending training, and taking a tour of a local manufacturing plant."

– Rebecca Bartkus, Development Engineer, Millipore

"Hear What the attendees had to say...A great mix of practical and strategic themes, with good opportunities for networking with relevant industry players."

– Sancha Salgueiro, Manager, Novozymes

"A must-attend annual conference for biopharmaceutical industry!"

– Jinyou Zhang, Ph.D., Associate VP, Process Development & Manufacturing, Immunomedics, Inc.

"This was my first time at this conference, even though I have attended various others in the past. The networking opportunities, caliber of presentations and the vendor exhibits were simply outstanding! I will be back!!"

– Timothy Atolagbe, Senior Development Scientist, United Therapeutics Corp
